This image shows a page from a handwritten musical manuscript. The manuscript consists of five-line staves with musical notation and Persian lyrics written in red ink. The lyrics are arranged in two columns per staff, with some lines continuing onto the next staff. The notation includes various note heads and stems, with some notes having vertical strokes through them. The red ink is used for headings, certain words, and to highlight specific notes or groups of notes. The overall layout is organized by staff lines, with lyrics placed above the notes.
