M

207 is a marginal addition in another hand, using slightly different conventions of notation. Each cycle is marked off by a vertical arrow, and each half cycle by a dot. A horizontal bar is added over two notes sharing a single time unit. The makam is not identified.

The page has suffered reduction at the edge, with the result that some material has been lost, hence the abnormally high incidence of square brackets. The onset of M is identified not by a label but by a large gap between it and the end of H1 b. H2 is designated orta hâne ("middle hane"). What is termed here H3 could equally well be a continuation of H2 (from which it is separated by only a short gap), in which case there would be no H3.

H1 b I: 12: in the light of the teslim one might prefer β here, but the original notation is quite clearly β .
